

Recapturing grace and femininity
Once again it is time for tea!

Time for kindness and manners
Elegance and grace of an earlier gentler
statelier period

Ladies in gloves and pretty hats sat together in their finest and practiced their very best manners . . .

And so shall we

Time For Tea ~
Preparations for Living a Cultured Life

Girls to age 7

Tea time, birthday and friendship parties are a fun
and elegant way to prepare young girls for a lifetime
of ladylike behavior in their dialogs and interactions
with others in the real world.

Girls to age 8 to 10

Time Out For "T" ~ Equipping young ladies with responses rather than reactions to real life situations engages them in learning how to remain poised with others and how to speak clearly and effectively.

Wonderfully Entertaining ...

A Time For Tea

*A time of elegance and of grace,
Of table manner, white gloves, and lace,
Of tea~leaves in a china cup.*

Just take a sip ~ never gulp.

*In that moment everything shines,
live the memory of peaceful times,
of forgotten words and gentle ways;
of tender moments, and kinder days.*

Imagine . . .

in a courtyard Mothers and Daughters in their Sunday best, fancy hats and white gloves, gathered around a table clothed with lace and set with fine china. A perfect day, gentile manners, shared stories and Tea!

in a royal castle garden the members of the royal court await the arrival of the queen. Dressed in their best attire, guests are schooled in the proper way to address her majesty and other courtly manners!
